REPORT RANKS COUNTY CO-OP AS BENEFICIAL

Analysis Shows County Fourth
In Shipments—Recognized
By Fed. Board.

An analysis of the report of the shipments made by the different County Livestock Cooperative Association throughout Ohio for the last month shows that the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association ranked fourth from the standpoint of total net market value. That the local association ranked third from the standpoint of number of floors handled, while the total expense per hundred obtained through the operation of the Pickaway-co organization was 24 cents, the lowest expense per hundred of any association in the state.

The losses covered by insurance amounted to only one cent per hundred during the February operation of the local association. Pickaway-co livestock farmers have available to them through their local shipping association, a marketing service through which they may obtain the greatest net return upon different classes of livestock which they produce. The Federal Farm Board in announcing the policies through which it expects to operate, has outlined very clearly the fact that the co-operative livestock marketing units shall be the vehicle through which the individual farmer may expect assistance in the dispensation of the government money entrusted to the farm board.

The National Livestock Production Cooperative Association of which the local association is a member, has been recognized by the farm board and has been loaned several thousands of dollars which is to be utilized in assisting the cooperative minded farmer in expanding his cooperative marketing services, that he may obtain more economic returns on his feeding enterprises.

Quite frequently a livestock farmer may be observed selling his stock to an independent dealer, who in turn takes the livestock to a cooperative marketing association and realizes a substantial margin, which would have reflected to the original producer an assured profit on his feeding operations, had he utilized this service which had been designed by the livestock producers to obtain for themselves the marketing savings.

BRIEF ILLNESS PROVES FATAL

Jackson-twp Boy Dies on Way
To Mercy Hospital Thursday Afternoon

A brief illness proved fatal to James Carmel Collier, 11 year old boy who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. James Peterman of Jackson-twp near Fox postoffice, Thursday while he was being taken to Mercy hospital, Columbus. The child was brought here on Wednesday evening to a physician but his condition was thought to be not serious. On Thursday morning he became worse and Peterman started to take him to the hospital. He died enroute.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Collier, formerly of Columbus, but had been making his home with Peterman's for three years.

Mrs. Virginia Purcell, S. Pickaway-twp was granted a divorce from Avery Purcell on grounds of gross neglect of duty in probate court Saturday by Judge E. A. Brown.

Wm. E. Crist Known As One of Circleville's Most Successful Business Men

William E. Crist represents the highest type of business men in Circleville, of those whose life work has been in commercial lines of our city. Mr. Crist has been interested in a store here his entire life, and at present is owner of Circleville's largest department store.

It is amazing how he can call to mind the history of downtown stores and enterprises. He can name the proprietors of all of the stores on Main-st since 1879, and the improvements made on this street since he first went to work in one of its stores.

That was in 1879, when he was employed by Wallace and Schleyer on W. Main-st in their general merchandise establishment. His wages were $2 a week. He stayed with them until 1882 when they went out of business, and went with Joseph Wallace. The store occupied the building where the Metropolitan theatre is now located.

Mr. Crist and Frank Mason finally became the owners of this store, and this was the beginning of a partnership that lasted through many years. During these early years of this partnership Mr. Crist also owned part of the Furniture store where Stevenson's is now. The store was known as Crist and Howard furniture store.

E. L. Howard was the other partner, who took active charge of the business. These two men bought from the city a part of Circleville that had been used for its gravel. The gravel had been taken out, and the ground leveled.

This plot of land was bounded on the south by Pleasant-st, on the east by Pickaway-st and on the north by the Fairgrounds. The plot was sold in building lots and was known as Crist and Howard addition.

Mr. Crist's hobby is building, and he is proud of the substantial buildings he has added to his native town. The first of these was in 1888 when he built the home on N. Court-st now occupied by T. P. Brown and family. In 1896 he built the store now occupied by the J. C. Penney Co., his beautiful home on N. Court-st and another residence on Pleasant-st. In 1914 he rebuilt the building where the Moore Shoe Store and the Clark store are situated.

The big Crist building at Circleville's busiest corner was bought by Mr. Crist from Jacob Weil and remodeled in 1922 and 1923 and in 1924 after the dissolution of the Crist and Mason partnership, the Crist department store moved to its present location.

Policy in Mr. Crist's stores has always been to have high class goods. He says that customers cannot and will not be content with cheap goods. His policy has proven to be the best, for Mr. Crist is considered one of Circleville's prosperous merchants.

The parents of Mr. Crist were (Turn to Page 3, Please)

EDUCATIONAL ATTENDANCE RECORD SET

More Than 6,000 Ohio Teachers Take Advantage of Excellent Weather

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—With all attendance records shattered, the tenth annual Ohio educational conference swung into its last day here today with approximately 6,000 school teachers jamming the lecture halls on the Ohio State University campus.

That old adage, "When a dog bites a man that's not news, but when a man bites a dog, that's news," was changed somewhat when John Finley, editor of the New York Times, defined news as "the story of mankind on the move," in an address at a general session of the conference of the conference last night.

"News is the book of the day's history," said the editor, who, at one time, was educational commissioner of New York state.

"The press," he continued, "Aids the school by bringing history down to date, showing also that history is not a tale that's all but told, but instead is constantly moving on."

Attendance last year reached the 5,200 mark. It was surpassed yesterday when 5,300 teachers registered at the conclave. The ranks were further swelled to 6,000 today by last minute arrivals.

CHARGE GIRLS WITH THEFT

Being Held In Jail In Connection With Stealing Ford
of Wesley Nibert.

Roxy Price and Daisy Rissing, both of Circleville, are being held in the county jail on a charge of automobile stealing, having been arrested late Friday evening by Washington C. H. police department for the local police, after the Ford roadster belonging to Wesley Nibert, E. Union-st, janitor at the new Municipal Hospital was reported stolen from in front of the Grand Opera House early Friday evening.

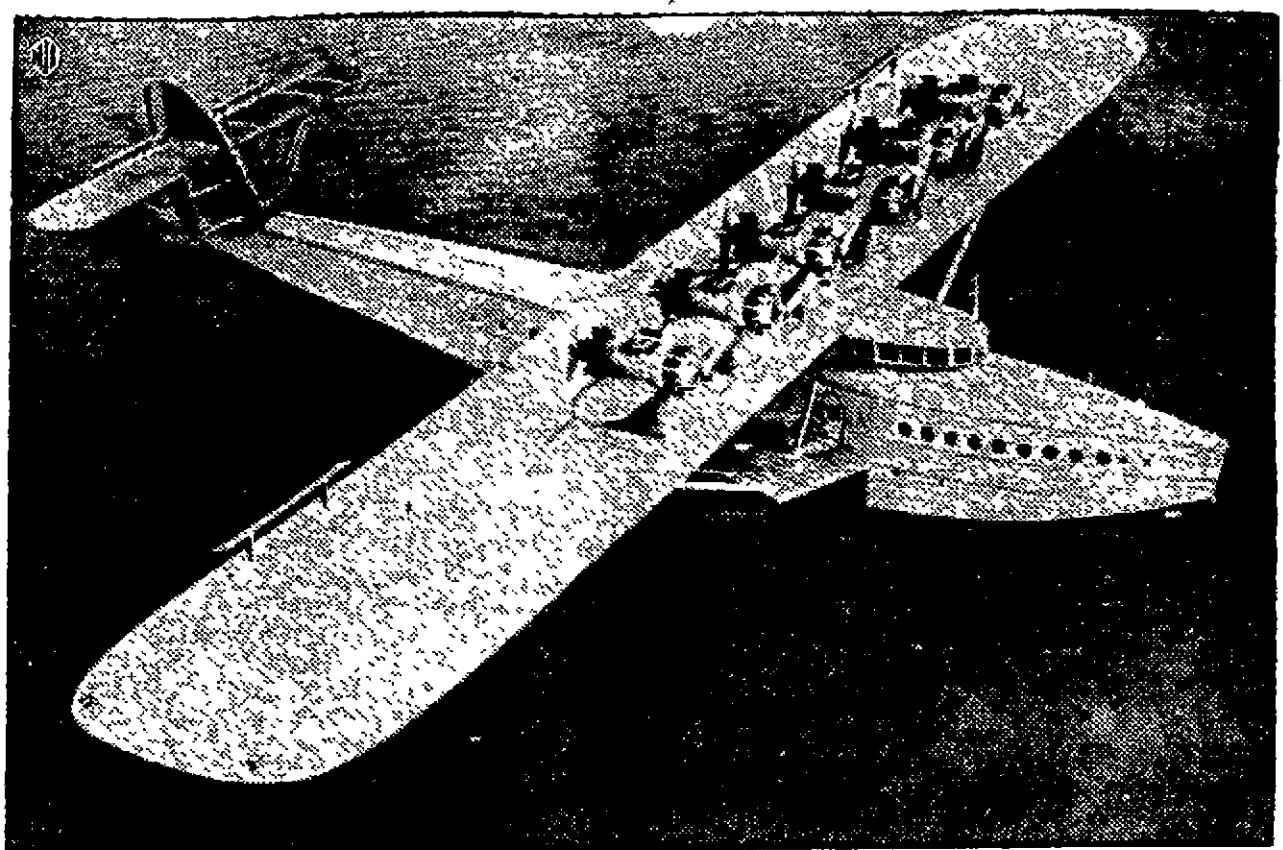

Nibert had been attending the show at the opera house, and when he came from the show he notified the local police who telephoned surrounding towns of the theft. Officials of the Washington C. H. police department notified local police soon after that they had recovered the car and were holding the girls.

Officer McCrady and Nibert returned the stolen car and the girls.

The interest manifested in the campaign is exceptional. Votes are pouring into the campaign headquarters in tens of thousands. But with all the interest a good natured feeling seems to prevail.

There are many subscribers who will say at the close of the great campaign: "Why, if I had known that she or he would have run so close I would have subscribed for the paper myself." So, on behalf of the candidates the paper makes the suggestion that subscribers who have kindly interest in any of the candidates, give them assistance in votes before it is too late. Remember at all times, readers, that it is not good wishes that will bring victory to the candidates. And you, candidates, don't forget your will power counts a great deal in this campaign. Don't depend upon your friends altogether to land a winner. Be an active candidate, not a receptive candidate. You want one of these elegant prizes. Well, put forth the effort that is required to win one. You are energetic, you have fond hopes of getting ahead, then why should you not get in this great subscription fight head over heels and win?

Do not be governed by what the others tell you. Often times, they will overestimate their chance of winning in your presence, as well as the number of votes they are holding in reserve. The person who tries to make one think he has a big reserve is generally the one who gets left at the close.

A few candidates have asked for special concessions in regard to the vote offer, which is impossible to grant. All conditions must be complied with, and please remember we play no favorites. Every dollar that comes into the office must be accompanied with the subscriber's money in the regular way. Everyone receives a scrupulously square deal of which The Herald is ample guarantee. It cannot be otherwise.

The campaign headquarters is a busy place these days. The manager is constantly on duty in campaign office ready and willing to give advice or suggestions to candidates or to answer any questions they may desire to ask. It will pay each candidate to get in touch with the Campaign Manager, as often as possible. She will have good ideas to communicate to you, which if followed out, will (Turn to Page 3, Please)

HUSTON, G. O. P. CHAIRMAN, AND RASKOB NAMED

Muscle Shoals May Hurt Former; Robinson After Latter On Wet Question.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Enjoying a mere lull before the storm, rival party leaders in the senate were frankly concerned today over an impending political war involving the heads of both major national committees.

A drive to remove Claudius H. Huston as Republican national committee chairman probably will get under way next week when the senate lobby committee files a report on his Muscle Shoals lobbying activities. At the same time, Senator Robinson (R) of Ind., member of the lobby committee, will try to link John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, a little closer to the affairs of the association against the prohibition amendment.

HUSTON SENSATIONAL
The Huston case will provide the more sensational developments. The lobby report undoubtedly will go into all of the details of Huston's activities as president of the Tennessee river improvement association, an organization that frankly lobbied for private operation of the Muscle Shoals project. It will deal too with a certain $36,100 fund given Huston for lobbying purposes but used by him on a speculative account with a New York stock broker.

There will be considerable debate about the propriety of Huston remaining as the administrative head of the Tennessee river improvement association, a body in view of identification as lobbyist and association with a stock speculator.

The party leaders however have repeatedly declared Huston would not resign and that President Hoover would not request his resignation. The whole row may provide political fireworks for the coming congressional campaigns without forcing Huston to resign.

The Raskob case may fail to achieve any such prominence. The only interesting development probably will be detailed information on how the association against the prohibition amendment used Raskob's annual contributions to elect both Republican and Democratic wets to congress.

Circleville Stores Show Latest Creations and Styles for Spring

By ALLISON DELAPLAINE

Between spasmodic spells of energetic housecleaning, during this weather of intermittent spring days, it seems a great idea to me to pause in the day's occupation and visit the stores. Windows at home smoked from the overworked furnace, and woodwork smudged with winter dirt are easily forgotten for the moment, as you gaze upon the spring styles.

This year there has been a wide change in dresses, coats and hats. With a glance at the newest creations, the resolution to wear last year's models, grow weaker and weaker as you shop around. To try on the new styles is simply fatal.

At first glance they seem extreme, and queer, but when they are on, ah, that is a different story. The evolution in styles this year is history making, and last year's clothes are apt to be catalogued with the antiques.

First there are the sweaters suits to be considered. Is there anyone who can look at these knitted ensembles and not want one? Never was style more apparent than in these swagger outfits. No husband could possibly begrudge not the price, for they are very reasonable. That is the suits, the husbands, are reasonable and are as practical as the old heavy sweaters and weighty woolsen suits of some years ago.

These knitted suits are in stockings at Friedman's and Jeffries and Colvilles. They come in all colors with straight lines and swaggy flares. Most of them are three piece and all are very serviceable.

It won't be long until the problem of the spring coat and Easter costume will be confronting us. The Circleville stores and their merchandise can compare favorably with the stores in any of the larger cities. Decorative effects achieved through seaming seems to be the dominant note of spring coat fashions. Detailed seaming mark semi-fitted lines, to arrange the hem flare, to create this much talked of back interest.

Many interesting coats at Crist's store, have interpretations of the flaring contour, noted in gowns as well as circular skirts and circular cut flounces.

At Crist's the clerks will gladly show you their new spring coats. Ask someone to show you their dressy coats, too, with their novel arrangements in fur draped pouch contours, standing collars with insets of fur.

The models at Jeffries and Colville's are excellent fits. The new models must fit to be stylish, and the prices are absolutely right. Here the colors are conservative and suited to many who like the most practical.

passing their window filled with spring coats. In the beauty and quality is even more apparent than they are in the price. Some have capelet collars of fur. The Princess making silhouettes are striking, and a lot of fur from the coats of last year. They are the last word in style and few are very expensive.

Polka dots here and everywhere are a feature of the mode. These practical dresses and ensembles are to be seen at Rothman's right now, and offer an excellent suggestion for the first spring clothes. There are so many possibilities with polka dots—enslaved scarfs, and trappings showing on the dress beneath the coat or at the neck. Black and white dots and navy blue and white are good.

Go in the stores and learn the styles for the spring and summer. Circleville's stores are ready for you.

The lobby report undoubtedly will go into all of the details of Huston's activities as president of the Tennessee river improvement association, an organization that frankly lobbied for private operation of the Muscle Shoals project. It will deal too with a certain $36,100 fund given Huston for lobbying purposes but used by him on a speculative account with a New York stock broker.

There will be considerable debate about the propriety of Huston remaining as the administrative head of the Republican party in view of identification as head of a lobbying association and as a stock speculator.

The party leaders however have repeatedly declared Huston would not resign and that President Hoover would not request his resignation. The whole row may provide political fireworks for the coming congressional campaigns without forcing Huston to resign.

The Raskob case may fail to achieve any such prominence. The only interesting development probably will be detailed information on how the association against the prohibition amendment used Raskob's annual contributors to elect both Republican and Democratic wets to congress.

County Agent Says That Bad
Weather Has Injured Crop
In Cold Soil.

"The general condition of wheat does not show satisfactory prospect for profitable crop returns in a large proportion of the county," says County Agent H. S. Lewis of the county farm bureau.

"Wheat in early soils and well drained soils show very satisfactory conditions, but that on colder soil types has been severely injured throughout the winter and the recent bad weather," he continues.

FARM DIRECTORS TO MEET TONIGHT

The board of directors of the Pickaway-co Farm Bureau will hold their regular monthly meeting at the farm bureau home on E. Main-st Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m.

The program will be comprised of progress reports given by the secretary, treasurer and county agent. Reports from the various state associations will be presented to the board and an analysis of business transacted during the past month and a discussion of plans for the future will comprise an important part of the afternoon's program.

Circleville Stores Show Latest Creations and Styles for Spring

By ALLISON DELAPLAINE

Between spasmodic spells of energetic housecleaning, during this weather of intermittent spring days, it seems a great idea to me to pause in the day's occupation and visit the stores. Windows at home smoked from the overworked furnace, and woodwork smudged with winter dirt are easily forgotten for the moment, as you gaze upon the spring styles.

This year there has been a wide change in dresses, coats and hats. With a glance at the newest creations, the resolution to wear last year's models, grow weaker and weaker as you shop around. To try on the new styles is simply fatal.

At first glance they seem extreme, and queer, but when they are on, ah, that is a different story. The evolution in styles this year is history making, and last year's clothes are apt to be catalogued with the antiques.

First there are the sweater suits to be considered. Is there anyone who can look at these knitted ensembles and not want one? Never was style more apparent than in these swaggar outfits. No husband could possibly begrudge the price, for they are very reasonable. That is the suits, not the husbands, are reasonable and are as practical as the old heavy sweaters and weighty wollen skirts of some years ago.

These knitted suits are in stock at Friedman's and Jeffries and Colvilles. They come in all colors, with straight lines and swaggar flares. Most of them are three piece and all are very serviceable.

It won't be long until the problem of the spring coat and Easter costume will be confronting us. The Circleville stores and their merchandise can compare favorably with the stores in any of the larger cities. Decorative effects achieved through seaming, seems to be the dominant note of Spring coat fashions. Detailed seaming mark semi-fitted lines, to arrange the hem flare, to create this much talked of back interest.

Many interesting coats at Crist's store, have interpretations of the flaring contour, noted in gowns as well as circular skirts and circular cut flounces.

At Crist's the clerks will gladly show you their new spring coats. Ask someone to show you their dressy coats, too, with their novelty arrangements in fur, draped pouch contours, standing collars with insets of fur.

The models at Jeffries and Colville's are excellent fits. The new models must fit, to be stylish. And the prices are absolutely right. Here the colors are conservative and suited to many who like the most practical.

I walked into Friedman's after passing their window filled with spring coats. Inside, the beauty and quality is even more apparent than they are in the window. Some have capelet collars of lapin fur. The Princess moulding silhouettes are striking, and a far cry from the coats of last year. They are the last word in style, and few are very expensive.

Polka dots here, and everywhere are a feature of the mode. These practical dresses and ensembles are to be seen at Rothman's right now, and offer an excellent suggestion for the first spring clothes. There are so many possibilities with polka dots—ensembles, scarfs, and trimmings showing on the dress beneath the coat or at the neck. Black and white dots and navy blue and white are good.

Go in the stores and learn the styles for the spring and summer. Circleville's stores are ready for you.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Worship the Measure of Man Dwight Bradley says, "A human is graded according to his capacity for worship and he who neglects worship neglects that which separates him from birds, animals, insects and the fishes, since they can do much that man does, but they cannot worship.

To neglect worship is to accept for one's self a low rating to fail in life's highest function, to commit physical suicide. Intelligent worship is the most remarkable achievement of which a human being is capable.

The church offers privileges of public worship. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Law of the Cross, Matthew 16:13-26 for Sunday, April 6.

The second quarter's lessons covers high points in the life of and teachings of Jesus from the mid-point of the second year of Jesus to the end of the third year. The first lesson presents the law of the cross which Jesus revealed to his disciples in the solitude of Caesarea Philippi.

V.13. "Now when Jesus came into the parts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, who do men say that the Son of Man is?" Here is a most important question which calls for an interpretation of an ideal life; the answer determines character, for ideas rule life. What men think of Christ is the master force in the world today.

V.15,16. "He saith unto them, but who say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." There are many interpretations of Christ but the most important one is one's own thought of Christ; there is no dodging the issue; a neutral answer or attitude is impossible.

Peter's confession was ideal in that it exalted Christ as the Son of the living God, lifting above humanity and crowning him with divinity.
There is real value in open confession of Christ, as it gives depth, stability and power to our beliefs.

V.17. "And Jesus answered and said unto him, blessed art thou, Simon Bar Jonah; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my father who is in heaven." God had revealed the great truth to Peter, but Peter had made his heart ready for his revelation.

V.18. "And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hades shall not prevail against it." The two main interpretations are, first, that the rock on which Christ will build his church is Peter himself and second that this is the faith which Peter confessed. The two views may be combined into the view that it is Peter making this confession that is the foundation rock of the church.

V.19. "I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven;
and whatsoever thou shalt bind
on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."
"Keys are symbols of authority and power. The supreme authority in the church is Christ himself, but he delegates authority to apostles and ministers.

Vs.21. "From that time began Jesus to show unto his disciples, that he must go into Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders, the chief priests and scribes and be killed and the third day be raised up." Jesus withheld the knowledge of his suffering and death till his disciples were ready to understand it. Christianity is not an easy religion but it makes hard demands of us in the way of service and self-sacrifice.

V.22. "And Peter took him, and began to rebuke him saying,
be it far from thee Lord; this shall never be." Peter was slow to give up his preconceived idea that Jesus was to inaugurate a great worldly kingdom. Peter proposed to defend Christ from any physical harm.

V.23. "But he turned and said unto Peter, get thee behind me Satan; thou art a stumbling block unto me; for thou mindest not things of God, but the things of men." Jesus exposed the root of Peter's folly-being worldly minded.

V.24,25. "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whatsoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it." Saving one's own life inevitably is overtaken with the penalty of selfishness.
Forgetting self in the service of others not only saves others but it reacts on the soul itself so as to strengthen and deepen and enrich all its life. To lose one's soul is an irreparable loss.

A new world of industry that is producing the new fashioned home has arisen; the center of interest has been transferred from the home to the factory; the worker's chief thought is upon his place of livelihood, upon wages, hours, working conditions and the necessity of holding his place in the fierce struggle for existence.

The new fashioned home is losing its grip upon the young people who are thrust out to meet the outside forces that conflict with the standards of home; in this conflict the children in the home demand a voice which makes for democracy, each member sharing in home responsibility and in self reliance.

The most serious factor in the new fashioned home is the fact that the new order of life leaves little room for real association of parent and children, so that home education is most difficult and the needed parental guidance is lost;
there is seen a social revolution as a result in dress, morals, customs and speech.

On the other hand, the new youth is becoming much more self-reliant, intelligently active and early wise to the ways of life. The new fashioned home no doubt will be able to cope with altered conditions as satisfactorily as did the old-fashioned home.

Stores to Stage Style Show Review At Cliftona Theatre, April 7, 8, 9

Crist's department store and Mack's shoe store will have a style review next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, in connection with the regular performance at the Cliftona theatre. The talkie feature at the theater will be "No No Nanette."

Eight professional dancers and models will show the latest creations in styles on a stage provided with a special setting. This setting will be of black velvet, and each model will be posed on a dais, and will step from it to promenade on the stage, while the next model is stepping into place.

These eight young girls will also appear in a dance number, "The Dance of the Wooden Shoes", in costume. An organizer from Columbus will furnish the music during the review.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a matinee for women.

Many types of spring and early summer fashions will be displayed during the style review. These will include dresses, coats, suits, millinery, pajamas, bathing suits, millinery, costume jewelry and all accessories. At the Tuesday afternoon matinee, lingerie will be added to the modeled apparel.

Different styles of ready-to-wear, in the review will include sports costume, afternoon and evening clothes.

One feature of the review will be the showing of white dresses, adaptable for graduation and confirmation.

Flowers on the stage for the style review will be furnished by the Mitchell greenhouse.

All of the shoes worn by the models, will be furnished by Mack's shoe store.

Included in the deluge of pretty girls who will come to Circleville in the style review will be Miss Gracabelle Dill, Miss Florence Miller, Miss Gene LaVerne Ellsworth, Miss Alice Eberly, Miss Jean Bishop, Miss Franceska Waggon, Miss Helen Lichtenberg and Miss Mary Margaret Gassman.

Wm. E. Crist

(Continued from Page One.) Nicholas Crist and Susan Schmidt Crist they were born in Hesse, Germany. They were married in Baltimore.

Mr Crist was the youngest of nine children. He and Mrs. Milton Morris of Circleville are the surviving members of the family. He was born in the little house on the north-east corner of W. High-street and Western-ave.

The advantages of lodges and fraternal organizations have never tempted Mr Crist into joining. He is not affiliated with any lodge. He says he has to be away from home too much as it is.

However, Mr Crist can boast of a church record of which he is very proud. He has been a member of the Trinity Lutheran church for 50 years. He has served on three different building committees of that institution which establishes a record. He was on the committee that arranged for the building of the present Lutheran Parsonage, the erecting of the church, and the recent parish house.

For more than 10 years, Mr Crist has served as trustee on the sinking fund of the city of Circleville, and is now its oldest member. He has served under Mayors John C. Goeller, Sr., George M. Fitzpatrick, Henry Renick and B. T. Hedges. He has been treasurer of the Pumpkin Show for more than 10 years and is a director of the First National Bank.

The success of life has come for Mr Crist after years of hard work. His father died when he was six years old, and life began with a struggle which tempered him for the years which led to success.

His wife was Catherine Mason before her marriage. Their son, Wallace Crist, is associated with his father in the Crist Department store, and his son William is named for Mr. Crist.

There are years ahead for Mr. Crist, in which he should be tempted to sit back and watch the results of his fruitful years in business.

Instead, if the enthusiasm he continues to display when he speaks of his store, and its management, his home, his church and his pride in his home town, the years ahead, will be filled with activity to rival the years that have gone before.

Morrow Counsel May Get His Post in Mexico

George Rublee, New York lawyer and present adviser in London to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, one of the American delegates at the Naval Conference, is expected to be chosen by President Hoover as the successor to Mr. Morrow as Ambassador to Mexico. Mr. Rublee is a well-known international lawyer and was associated with Mr. Morrow in Mexico last year.

ASHVILLE

C. M. Young and wife of Van Wert, O., stopped on their way to Ringgold to see his aunt, Mrs. Sophia Briggs here.

Harry Beavers and wife of Columbus called on his aunt, Mrs. Sophia Briggs, Sunday.

Mrs. Annie Pierce of Scioto-st. is quite sick at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Dawson and son from Dayton, O., and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mithoff of Ashville took dinner at the Warner House in Chillicothe. They also visited the Soldiers' Hospital at Camp Sherman.

The Salem W. C. T. U. held its all day institute at the home of the president, Miss Mary Sharp-st. Wednesday, April 2 at Kings-ton. Visitors were from Ashville, Circleville, Walnut-twp and Turlington. Visiting president and directors of departments gave short talks.

The county president and Mrs. Lucy Price of Circleville gave a fine address and also Noah Spangler. A fine dinner was served at the noon hour. There was a large crowd present and a fine time was much enjoyed by all.

There will be a class of five ladies taken in the Pythian Sisters at the next meeting April 15th.

A. B. Cooper has begun work on his new filling station on the old Steward site on E. Main-st which he recently purchased.

TRAINING CAMP SHORTS

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—Wesley Ferrell, youthful star hurler of the Cleveland Indians, who has pitched only nine innings since his career as a holdout was ended, was scheduled to face the New Orleans Pelicans in an exhibition game here today.

A typical rain storm blasted the hopes of a game with the Baton Rouge club of the Cotton States league yesterday at Baton Rouge. The diamond suddenly became a virtual lake just five minutes before the fray was scheduled to begin and Manager Peckinbaugh and his tribe were forced to return to their camp here, deprived of the chance to sharpen up for the big campaign.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 5.—A rejuvenated Cincinnati outfield will take its stand against the Nashville Volunteers here today.

Curt Walker, who played the right pasture last year, will be moved back to his old position. Bob Meusel will guard the left and Marty Callaghan will be tried out at center.

"It's a tryout to get the most power we can at the bat without sacrificing too much on the defense," said Dan Howley.

BIRMINGHAM, April 5.—Whatever may have made Clark Griffith think "Goose" Goslin needed to be put on a bonus basis with a cut in salary should be somewhat dispelled today.

The "Goose," training at his own expense because he held out so long on account of the salary row, did right well by the team yesterday, his first game since he affixed his signature to the $10,000 contract. One home run and two singles was his contribution to the 6-0 victory over the Barons.

Griffith, it was learned today, intends to keep George Loepp, swatting outfielder. He may be alternated with Sam West in center field. Johnson has refused to "farm out" Alvin Powell to the Chattanooga Lookouts.

"I want to see more of the boy," said Walter. "Right now it looks as if he might stay with us."

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 5.—Rogers Hornsby, star slugger of the Chicago Cubs, was on his way to Chicago today where he will undergo treatment for the "bruised" head which has put him out of the lineup indefinitely.

The National League champions yesterday pounded the Los Angeles Angels for an 8 to 6 exhibition game victory.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 5.—The cunning arm of the veteran Red Faber was hailed today by his Chicago White Sox teammates after Faber pitched the Sox to a 5 to 3 victory over the Little Rock travellers yesterday, allowing only five hits.

MEMPHIS, April 5.—Just how good or bad Larry Benton is going to be this season may be indicated this afternoon when he huris for the iGants as they oppose the Memphis Chicks. He has been elected by aMnager McGraw to pitch six innings, with Lefty Walker as his relief.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 5.—Texas applause surrounded Lou Gehrig today, while his teammate, the Great Babe Ruth, was shrouded in gloom. The best Ruth could do yesterday as the Yankees hung a 10 to 6 defeat on the local entry of the Texas league was a double, while Lou got a triple, a double and a single.

MACON, Ga., April 5.—The spotlight was trained on Babe Herman today. The hard hitting right fielder not only won for the Robins yesterday over the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, with sticking when it was most needed, but added to the joy of the Dodgers by signing a contract at $15,000 annually.

JACKSON TWP.

Plans for the musicale to be given by the high school are completed. The date set for the entertainment is Friday evening, April 11, at 7.45 o'clock.

The school has purchased a plaque, upon which the name of the honor senior of each graduating class will be inscribed. The honor senior will also be presented with a gold key.

On Thursday, April 3, Miss Bartholomew, county health nurse, will speak to the girls of the high school on subjects concerning hygiene and sanitation. Dr. Stump, health officer, will also speak to the boys upon similar subjects.

CHILLI FIGHT TO BE GOOD

Elmer Bezenah, of Cincinnati, Signs To Battle Lennie Bowman, April 11.

Elmer Bezenah, one of the best welter weights out of Cincinnati, has been rematched for a Chillicothe appearance on Friday, April 11, 1930. Ever since Bezenah pasted Joe O'Malley, fans who saw that bout have been clamoring to see him again in action. Match-maker Corcoran busied himself and had Bezenah to sign a contract to meet any opponent in a Chillicothe ring. Following a process of inclusion and exclusion which failed to shed any light on the matter, Lennie Bowden, thru his manager, Dr. Adams, of Huntington, came across with a challenge. Here is a little excerpt from a letter received by Corcoran from Dr. Adams following a long distance call arranging the match.

"I am glad that arrangements have been concluded which assures my fighter meeting Bezenah. Bowden has been going great and if you could only have seen him in action against Frank Palmo in Cincinnati last Saturday nite, you

Funeral services for Allen McDaniel, aged 37, father of Palmer McDaniel of Williamsport, who died at his home in Jeffersonville were held Thursday at the M. P. church in Jeffersonville with burial also there.

Mr. McDaniel was one of the few Civil war veterans of the Jeffersonville community. He is survived by two daughters, three sons, and one brother.

Bill Johnson of Circleville will spend the week-end in Toledo.

OPPOSITES ATTRACT

—But for How Long?

Opposites do attract. You see a thousand examples of it every day. But is the attraction a lasting one?

Take the case of Eve Reade and Kenneth Miller. They were as different as light and dark. But they were both young, hotheaded—and in love.

Eve was demure and beautiful and good. Ken was dashing and brilliant, with a fine crop of wild oats sowed too near home.

They were married. But it didn't last long.

Suddenly they were on the rocks, smashed to bits.

Was their tragedy only a futile search for the happiness two widely different temperaments can never find together?

Or were the gossips right when they whispered at the wedding that no happy marriage could be founded on the unconventional start of their love?

Winifred Van Duzer, America's ace serialist, has written the greatest drama of her career in "Sheik's Wife," a story of a modern marriage in an artists' colony.

Here are thrills, pounding hearts and romance unequalled even in Miss Van Duzer's famous "Half Wives," "Cardigan's Lovers" and "The Scarlet Lady."

Watch for "Sheik's Wife" in The Herald beginning

Tuesday, April 8th

Its the greatest story ever written of love after marriage.

Since Bezenah has shown his wares before a large house in the O'Malley fight, many Bezenah followers will question the latter statement made by Dr. Adams. At any rate, the Chillicothe boxing club think they have the greatest main event ever carded for this city.

Encouraging Fact

We must learn to awaken and keep ourselves awake, not by mechanical aids, but by an infinite expectation of the dawn, which does not forsake us in our soundest sleep. I know of no more encouraging fact than the unquestionable ability of man to elevate his life by a conscious endeavor.—Henry D. Thoreau.

OPPOSITES ATTRACT —But for How Long?

Opposites do attract. You see a thousand examples of it every day. But is the attraction a lasting one?

Take the case of Eve Reade and Kenneth Miller. They were as different as light and dark. But they were both young, hotheaded—and in love.

Eve was demure and beautiful and good. Ken was dashing and brilliant, with a fine crop of wild oats sowed too near home.

They were married. But it didn't last long.

Suddenly they were on the rocks, smashed to bits.

Was their tragedy only a futile search for the happiness two widely different temperaments can never find together?

Or were the gossips right when they whispered at the wedding that no happy marriage could be founded on the unconventional start of their love?

Winifred Van Duzer, America's ace serialist, has written the greatest drama of her career in "Sheik's Wife," a story of a modern marriage in an artists' colony.

Here are thrills, pounding hearts and romance unequalled even in Miss Van Duzer's famous "Half Wives," "Cardigan's Lovers" and "The Scarlet Lady."

Watch for "Sheik's Wife" in The Herald beginning

CROP REDUCTION

Efforts continue to persuade farmers to reduce their crops this year, especially their wheat crops. The tariff commission adds its influence to that of the Farm Board. The commission's chief economist has been working lately with farm leaders to curtail the acreage devoted to raising hard spring wheat.

He says that the four northwestern states, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota should cut their wheat area not less than 2,000,000 acres, in order to do their bit toward preventing the accumulating wheat surplus.

This is the accepted procedure for maintaining prices for wheat or any other commodity. It is doubtless right to cut production, if more of anything is being produced than the world can use. But at best, that is only half the game and the less constructive half.

The farmer wants to continue using his land, just as the manufacturer wants to continue using his plant. What shall be raised instead of wheat, or instead of any other crop that is being produced faster than it can be consumed?

The real problem here is not surplus crops, but surplus land.

Does not the farmer's economic salvation depend on using his surplus land for other crops than the foodstuffs now glutting the market? Doesn't his opportunity for the future lie in raising crops usable as raw materials for new industrial products? Why not talk more about that?

EX-PRESIDENTIAL MANSION

It is a surprise, but rather an agreeable one, to learn that Calvin Coolidge has bought one of the finest residences in Northampton, Mass., "located in a secluded part of the city." From the description and the price, one gathers that it is probably a suitable home for a former President of the United States.

Mr. Coolidge, living modestly and self-respectfully in half a rented house, far too small to accommodate the family belongings and on a noisy street thronged with miscellaneous traffic, was an interesting and admirable figure in this age of extravagance and display. Nevertheless to millions of his fellow-citizens such an abode seemed hardly fitting for a man of his position.

We like to see our Presidents and vice Presidents invested with the material trappings of honor and dignity. Mount Vernon and Monticello are noble examples. It is hard to make a national shrine out of a duplex house on a corner lot.

Yes, moral standards change. Nowadays a guilty man is triumphantly vindicated if you can't prove it on him.

More difficulty than before in taking the census. Enumerators can't get into the house till they prove they're not dry enforcement officers.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER LIII.
FATIGUE blunted her sensibilities. Alan loved her and it was more than possible that she had killed him by taking him that long journey in the car. She could not even feel anxiety on that score. It was impossible to nurse him. Doctors would not come up-country, so there had been no alternative to taking him down.

Her emotional being was numbed, and her active consciousness saw only the necessity to keep the camp in order and the work going until he could return to take command of it.

She went to the house in Kalamazoo, bathed and forced herself to take a meal, then set herself to the task of driving back to the camp. She had no doubt that she would arrive. Her fatigue had passed beyond the immediate want for sleep and she knew that, if need were, she could go on moving and working for several days and nights. For the first time in her life she was drawing on the immense reserves of strength and energy she had built up by years of healthy living.

She reached the shack an hour before dawn and was greeted by Petros who, refusing to sleep, had squatted outside the shack awaiting her return. She was able to feel gratitude for his devotion, but was too ignorant of the customs of the country to attempt to express it. She knew that it would be foolish to lie down, and while Petros prepared her a meal she wrote to Alan.

"Dear Alan, get well as quickly as you can and don't worry about anything. Your plans were successful in every detail. Stephanos and his whole band have been destroyed. With the help of the foreman I shall be able to carry on here until you are fit. I will send a letter down every day by the supply lorries telling you what we are doing. Yours—Shirley."

It was no idle assurance. While in the camp she had seen something of Alan's organization, his foresight and ability to provide for the possible failure of others. The battle had gone exactly as he had planned it and the work would do the same.

Although he did not know it, Abramov was, in effect, made general manager of the camp. He spoke four languages, like most of the Macedonians, above the average class, and was a first-class hunter. The first day he had brought her a fine deer, and she had shared with full strength into arranging supplies, pay and the details of the work. Every day she received reports from Alan, which she planned overnight, and spent the day in seeing to their execution.

In six days the metals were laid and a short train snuffed through the camp laden with stores for completing the last few miles of the track. It was on that day that Roger appeared in the camp.

It was during the last hour of work, Shirley was in the shack, checking quantities, when a laborer brought him in.

For a moment she stared at him helplessly, believing that his appearance was a hallucination.

"Hello, Shirley!" he said shamefacedly. "I'm sorry to disturb you. I wanted to see Abramov."

At the sound of his voice, Shirley stiffened and pulled herself together.

"He is not here—he won't be here for a week, perhaps longer," she said coldly. "Why have you come here, Roger?"

Uninvited, he seated himself.

"Can I have a drink, Shirley?"

"You can have limejuice and water if you like. We have no alcohol here."

Roger, "Abramov offered to take a million and a quarter shares in return for his half-million—but as even I cannot afford to run the risk of paying back a million and a quarter for the use of a half-million for one year, I thought I would come out and see exactly what is being done with my property."

Shirley was at a loss. She remembered that Alan had written to Roger the day before he went up-country and she had assumed that the whole matter had been arranged.

"I don't follow all this," she said wearily. "You had better go back to Salonika and wait until Alan can see you. He is ill and will not be able to do any business for some little time."

"And has left you in charge, eh?" suggested Roger. "Well, I

"Don't forget that we are husband and wife for another couple of months or so."

He made a mistake and took the proffered drink.

"Are you living here with him?"

"You must find it pretty ghastly," he remarked.

"Will you tell me why you have come, Roger?" she asked.

"This is a rather early reception, my dear," he said. "Don't forget that I am a husband and wife for another couple of months or so. Also, don't forget, please, that I am a Macedonian. I can't help it. I have come."

Shirley glared at him. "You are a man and you should be able to hear him claiming it as his own."

"That isn't true. I took the shares from you and he took the money you owe him."

She watched him as he went away, his head bowed, and she saw that he had indeed taken her money.

"I see he does not take you wholly into his confidence," said

Agricultural and Conservation interests in the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

SOME GOOD IN 'EM

The Starlings. (which on account of their habit of roosting in great numbers about the corners of buildings during the winter, are growing more and more unpopular) will soon be disbanded to take up the duties of raising more Starlings to be blasphemed next year. They will appear to leave the country but they'll be around. With all the dislikes for the pests in the winter, condemnation of their nest-stealing activities and habits of driving out other desirable bird neighbors in the spring, it must not be forgotten that the Starling eats, especially during the spring and summer, much noxious insect life, including the dreaded Japanese Beetle. Thus it often happens that a creature which is condemned by many for one bad habit, oftentimes aids the condemners by asserting one of its good habits.

WATCH SYRUP SWINDLERS

The Dairy and Foods Division of the Ohio Department of Agriculture sounds a warning for people buying maple syrup to be sure of the purity of the product. This is the time of the year when the luscious breakfast cake spread appears, and many brands are synthetic, sometimes being little better than sweetened water. Beware of the can marked with the name of a manufacturer without a post office address. If dubious get name and address of seller and notify the Food and Dairy Division, Columbus, an investigation will be made.

TURKEYS

Although lower prices for turkeys in 1929 will discourage many producers, the rapid adoption of improved methods of production has so greatly reduced losses of young birds and lowered production costs during recent years that total numbers may not decrease in 1930. The important commercial areas are not likely to reduce numbers materially.

The turkey crop of 1929 was estimated at 9 per cent larger than that of the previous year. The increase was rather general over the country and higher than that figure in Ohio. Western States reported a 6 per cent increase over the large crop of 1928 and more than 25 per cent increase over the crop of 1926. Much of the commercial supply of turkeys comes from that area.

Information as to market receipts for the Thanksgiving and Christmas market of 1929 is not available, but demand was active and supplies were well cleaned up. Cold-storage holdings January 1, 1930, were 9,830,000 pounds, or about 6 per cent less than January 1, 1929, and 7.5 per cent less than the five year average.

FERTILIZERS

The semi annual report of the Feed and Fertilizer Division has been published and may be had free by interested parties, on application to that division, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus. It is a comprehensive volume. The Division is carrying on an intensive campaign this year to prevent sale of inferior fertilizers in Ohio, and invites cooperation from farmers. Ohio farmers are buying more tons of better fertilizers. Tonnage of fertilizers used on Ohio Farms showed 55 per cent increase in 1929 over 1928 but a 15 per cent increase in the number of pounds of plant food. As in other recent years the tonnage of nitrogen and potash in fertilizers sold in the state continues a marked increase in proportion to the phosphorous sold.

TO STOCK TURKEYS

At a recent meeting of the Newcomerstown Rod and Gun Club, a plan was formulated by the members for a trial experiment with wild turkeys in the hills along the Tuscarawas river. An application was filed with the State Conservation Division for batching of wild turkey eggs. Isolated brush land along the river valley promises excellent cover for this game, the members declared. Five hundred ring-neck pheasant eggs were also ordered from the Conservation Division for distribution among the farmers and sportsmen of the section about Newcomerstown.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAMS

The Ohio Conservation Division has prepared a 32-page highly illustrated Arbor Day and Conservation Booklet which will soon be ready for free distribution. It contains suggestive recitations, songs, and articles suitable for school, Sunday School and civic club Arbor Day programs. Copies may be had on application to the Conservation Division, Educational Bureau, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus.

Famous Horse Race

The Kentucky derby is a $200,000 race for three-year-olds at one and a quarter miles. The race was one and one-half miles from 1875 to 1895. It is run at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky.

"Airing-Out" Disease

Dr. Copeland's Health Suggestion Today

Don't Overlook the Importance of Sunshine and Fresh Air in Bedrooms, Urges Authority; They Are the Finest Disinfectants Known.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

OUR grandmothers were wise in their day and generation. They may not have known the scientific reasons for doing many things, but they used good common sense in the making of a home and protecting the family health.

How many there are today who overlook the importance of having the bedrooms of the house exposed to the sunshine. For those who live in the city this is not always possible, but for those who are building a home this should be one of the first things to be thought of in its planning.

We know now, from a scientific standpoint, the real value of sunlight. But without knowing just why, the earliest Greeks worshipped it and provided for living in it at all times.

Perhaps the most important thing in the life of man, along with proper food, is good, restful sleep. When you have adequate sleep, you are building up vital energy and resistance to disease.

You cannot have the right sort of sleep if you haven't a comfortable bed. When your mattress sags in the middle, your bed springs begin to give out, and your pillows, too, are the worse for wear, it is about time to do something about it.

Put the money you might spend on some luxury into the very necessary adjuncts of your sleeping quarters. Mattresses should be made over comparatively often. Sometimes a new one will cost less than having one made over, but for sanitary reasons, if no other, your mattresses should be taken in hand at regular intervals. Sound sleep is conducive to good health. You cannot sleep well without the comfort of good beds and warm enough coverings.

Our grandmothers knew the value of sunlight and fresh air. They always used to hang the bedding out of doors in the sun "to air." Sun has the power to kill germs of tuber-

Give the mattress a good dusting and shaking out in the sun along with all the other bedding. If it is a possible thing.

Germs are everywhere present. They thrive on dust and dirt. Florence Nightingale, that wonderful nurse of the Crimean War, said to her nurses: "You cannot lock-in or lock-out the infectious poison; you cannot wall out infection. You can air it out, diffuse it and clean it away. . . . Cleanliness and fresh air do not so much give life as they are life itself to the patient. Cleanliness—clean air, clean water, clean surroundings and a fresh atmosphere everywhere—are the true safeguards against infection."

No trouble is too great to expend on having a sleeping room that gives perfect comfort. Have sunshine if possible, make every effort to have it, for you are adding years to life for yourself and for the various members of your family.

Old, New Songs Heard In "No, No Nanette"

The screen production of "No, No, Nanette," which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Monday, will contain song hits from the original stage show as well as many new numbers which have already attained great popularity since the recent release of this colorful picture.

"Tea For Two" and "I Want To Be Happy" from the footlight production will be heard in the Vitaphone edition, sung by a chorus of 150 and the two featured leads, Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray. These two songs were among the country's best sellers when "No, No Nanette" was having its sensational success on Broadway.

The big number of the picture, however, is "King of the Air," by Eddie Ward and Al Bryan, one of Hollywood's most harmonious song-writing teams. Three other numbers based on lavish scenes in the film are "Dancing on Mars" by Michael H. Cleary, Ned Washington and Herb Magidson; "The Japanese Ballet," by M. Jerome and Herman Ruby; and "The Dance of the Wooden Shoes," by Cleary, Washington and Magidson.

"The Dance of the Wooden Shoes," which is featured as the "Holland" number in "No, No, Nanette," will be reproduced on the stage of the Cliftona Theatre in costume by the "Cliftonettes" as their introductory presentation to Cliftona audiences. These clever, young girls are professional tap and ballet dancers, and are destined to become well-known to Cliftona patrons through their appearance in future presentation act.

"No, No, Nanette" is one of the most lavish pictures ever produced at the First National Studios. Four of the big sequences—the Holland, Japan, New York, and Mars episodes—each cost more than the entire original stage production.

SUNDAY

Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the featured role in "The Fall of Eve," the Columbia all-talking production at the Cliftona Sunday, is a talented young lady. In addition to her remarkable ability on the screen, on the tennis court and in a swimming pool, she has had considerable success as a writer. Most of it has been anonymous. When she was a student at Mary Institute in St. Louis, she was chief contributor to the school magazine. In her junior year she became editor of the publication. Since then she has had several of her verses and short stories published.

LOUIS WILEY, BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE NEW YORK TIMES, SAYS:

THAT advertising is news, because it spreads information about thousands of commodities and services. Go through the advertising columns of a metropolitan newspaper—and what do you find?

A department store tells its public about new merchandise, new services. A railroad or an industrial corporation spreads before investors the details of a new offering of securities. A manufacturer announces a new kind of window glass that permits all the health-giving properties of the sun's rays to penetrate into homes and factories. A big New York hotel provides radio reception for every room. The examples are practically unlimited.

It is this news element of modern advertising, this announcing of new styles, new inventions, new conveniences that controls the buying habits of our population and renders to all the people of every community an economic and educational service that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to provide in any other way.

THE NEWSPAPER IS THE AGENCY WHICH MAKES POSSIBLE ALL THOSE EDUCATIONAL AND ECONOMIC ADVANTAGES. AND AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN ARE FINDING THAT NO INSTRUMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY CONTRIBUTES MORE, OR IS LIKELY TO DO SO IN THE FUTURE, TO THE ALL-IM-

The first day he troubled her little and by the second day she had slept off her fatigue and plunged with full strength into arranging supplies, pay and the details of the work. Every day she received mythical orders from Alan, which planned overnight, and spent the day in seeing to their execution.

In six days the metals were laid and a short train puffed through the camp laden with stone for completing the last few miles of the track. It was on that day that Roger appeared in the camp. It was during the last hour of work. Shirley was in the shack, checking quantities, when a laborer brought him in. For a moment she stared at him helplessly, believing that his appearance was an hallucination. "Hello, Shirley," he said shamefacedly. "I'm sorry to disturb you. I wanted to see Brennaway."

At the sound of his voice, Shirley stiffened and pulled herself together. "He is not here—he won't be here for a week, perhaps longer," she said coldly. "Why have you come here, Roger?"

Uninvited, he seated himself. "Can I have a drink, Shirley?" "You can have limejuice and water if you like. We have no alcohol here."

"Don't forget that we are husband and wife for another couple of months or so."

He made a grimace and took the proffered drink. "Are you living here with him?" "You must find it pretty ghastly!" he remarked. "Will you tell me why you have come, Roger?" she persisted. "This is a rather chilly reception, my dear," he said ironically. "Don't forget that we are husband and wife for another couple of months or so. Also—don't forget, please, that I am chief shareholder in Macedonian Developments. That, perhaps, will explain why I have come."

Shirley glared at him. The work was Alan's and hers and to hear him claiming it as his made her angry. "That isn't true. Alan took the shares from you in return for the money you owe him." She watched him smile in the way she had detected of old. "See he does not take you wholly into his confidence," said

IN AND ABOUT THE STATE HOUSE

A Department of News Service And Cooperation for Herald Readers

Agricultural and Conservation interests in the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

SOME GOOD IN 'EM

The Starlings. (which on account of their habit of roosting in great numbers about the cornices of buildings during the winter, are growing more and more unpopular) will soon be disbanding to take up the duties of raising more Starlings to be blasphemed next year. They will appear to leave the country but they'll be around. With all the dislikes for the pests in the winter, condemnation of their nest-stealing activities and habits of driving out other desirable bird neighbors in the spring, it must not be forgotten that the Starling eats, especially during the spring and summer, much noxious insect life, including the dreaded Japanese Beetle. Thus it often happens that a creature which is condemned by many for one bad habit, oftentimes aids the condemners by asserting one of its good habits.

WATCH SYRUP SWINDLERS

The Dairy and Foods Division of the Ohio Department of Agriculture sounds a warning for people buying maple syrup to be sure of the purity of the product. This is the time of the year when the luscious breakfast cake spread appears, and many brands are synthetic, sometimes being little better than sweetened water. Beware of the can marked with the name of a manufacturer without a post office address. If dubious get name and address of seller and notify the Food and Dairy Division, Columbus, an investigation will be made.

TURKEYS

Although lower prices for turkeys in 1929 did discourage many producers, the rapid adoption of improved methods of production has so greatly reduced losses of young birds and lowered production costs during recent years that total numbers may not decrease in 1930. The important commercial areas are not likely to reduce numbers materially.

The turkey crop of 1929 was estimated at 9 per cent larger than that of the previous year. The increase was rather general over the country and higher than that figure in Ohio. Western States reported a 6 per cent increase over the large crop of 1928 and more than 25 per cent increase over the crop of 1926. Much of the commercial supply of turkeys comes from that area.

Information as to market receipts for the Thanksgiving and Christmas market of 1929 is not available, but demand was active and supplies were well cleaned up. Cold-storage holdings January 1, 1930, were 9,830,000 pounds, or about 6 per cent less than January 1, 1929, and 7.5 per cent less than the five year average.

FERTILIZERS

The semi annual report of the Feed and Fertilizer Division has been published and may be had free by interested parties, on application to that division, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus. It is a comprehensive volume. The Division is carrying on an intensive campaign this year to prevent sale of inferior fertilizers in Ohio, and invites cooperation from farmers. Ohio farmers are buying more tons of better fertilizers. Tonnage of fertilizers used on Ohio Farms showed 5.5 per cent increase in 1929 over 1928 but a 15 per cent increase in the number of pounds of plant food. As in other recent years the tonnage of nitrogen and potash in fertilizers sold in the state continues a marked increase in proportion to the phosphorous sold.

TO STOCK TURKEYS

At a recent meeting of the Newcomerstown Rod and Gun Club, a plan was formulated by the members for a trial experiment with wild turkeys in the hills along the Tuscarawas river. An application was filed with the State Conservation Division for hatching of wild turkey eggs. Isolated brush land along the river valley promises excellent cover for this game, the members declared. Five hundred ring-neck pheasant eggs were also ordered from the Conservation Division for distribution among the farmers and sportsmen of the section about Newcomerstown.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAMS

The Ohio Conservation Division has prepared a 32-page highly illustrated, Arbor Day and Conservation Booklet which will soon be ready for free distribution. It contains suggestive recitations, songs, and articles suitable for school, Sunday School and civic club Arbor Day programs. Copies may be had on application to the Conservation Division, Educational Bureau, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus.

"Airing-Out" Disease

Dr. Copeland's Health Suggestion Today

Don't Overlook the Importance of Sunshine and Fresh Air in Bedrooms, Urges Authority; They Are the Finest Disinfectants Known.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

OUR grandmothers were wise in their day and generation. They may not have known the scientific reasons for doing many things, but they used good common sense in the making of a home and protecting the family health.

How many there are today who overlook the importance of having the bedrooms of the house exposed to the sunshine. For those who live in the city this is not always possible, but for those who are building a home this should be one of the first things to be thought of in its planning.

We know now, from a scientific standpoint, the real value of sunlight. But without knowing just why, the earliest Greeks worshiped it and provided for living in it at all times. Perhaps the most important thing in the life of man, along with proper food, is good, restful sleep. When you have adequate sleep, you are building up vital energy and resistance to disease.

You cannot have the right sort of sleep if you haven't a comfortable bed. When your mattress sags in the middle, your bed springs begin to give out, and your pillows, too, are the worse for wear, it is about time to do something about it.

Put the money you might spend on some luxury into the very necessary adjuncts of your sleeping quarters. Mattresses should be made over comparatively often. Sometimes a new one will cost less than having one made over, but for sanitary reasons, if no other, your mattresses should be taken in hand at regular intervals. Sound sleep is conducive to good health. You cannot sleep well without the comfort of good beds and warm enough coverings.

Our grandmothers knew the value of sunlight and fresh air. They always used to hang the bedding out of doors in the sun to "air." Sun has the power to kill germs of tuber-

Give the mattress a good dusting and shaking out in the sun along with all the other bedding. If it is a possible thing.

Germs are everywhere present. They thrive on dust and dirt.

Florence Nightingale, that wonderful nurse of the Crimean War, said to her nurses: "You cannot lock-in or lock-out the infectious poison; you cannot wall out infection. You can air it out, diffuse it and clean it away."

Cleanliness and fresh air do not so much give life as they are life itself to the patient. Cleanliness—clean air, clean water, clean surroundings and a fresh atmosphere everywhere—are the true safeguards against infection.

No trouble is too great to expend on having a sleeping-room that gives perfect comfort. Have sunshine if possible, make every effort to have it for you are adding years to life for yourself and for the various members of your family.

Theatres
Old, New Songs
Heard In "No,
No Nanette"

The screen production of "No, No, Nanette," which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Monday, will contain song hits from the original stage show as well as many new numbers which have already attained great popularity since the recent release of this colorful picture.

"Tea For Two" and "I Want To Be Happy" from the footlight production will be heard in the Vitaphone edition, sung by a chorus of 150 and the two featured leads, Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray. These two songs were among the country's best sellers when "No, No Nanette" was having its sensational success on Broadway.

The big number of the picture, however, is "King of the Air," by Eddie Ward and Al Bryan, one of Hollywood's most harmonious song-writing teams. Three other numbers based on lavish scenes in the film are "Dancing on Mars" by Michael H. Cleary, Ned Washington and Herb Magidson; "The Japanese Ballet," by M. Jerome and Herman Ruby; and "The Dance of the Wooden Shoes," by Cleary, Washington and Magidson.

"The Dance of the Wooden Shoes," which is featured as the "Holland" number in "No, No, Nanette," will be reproduced on the stage of the Cliftona Theatre in costume by the "Cliftonettes" as their introductory presentation to Cliftona audiences. These clever, young girls are professional tap and ballet dancers, and are destined to become well-known to Cliftona patrons through their appearance in future presentation act.

"No, No, Nanette" is one of the most lavish pictures ever produced at the First National Studios. Four of the big sequences—the Holland, Japan, New York, and Mars episodes—each cost more than the entire original stage production.

SUNDAY
Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the featured role in "The Fall of Eve," the Columbia all-talking production at the Cliftona Sunday, is a talented young lady. In addition to her remarkable ability on the screen, on the tennis court and in a swimming pool, she has had considerable success as a writer. Most of it has been anonymous. When she was a student at Mary Institute in St. Louis, she was chief contributor to the school magazine. In her junior year she became editor of the publication. Since then she has had several of her verses and short stories published.

AT THE GRAND

Bob Steele in "Laughing at Death" is the picture at the Grand Theatre Saturday evening. Plotters stooped to everything to put the American youth out of the way but he wouldn't let them win.

Equatorial Days

The naval observatory says the length of the day at the equator varies less than one minute throughout the year, being slightly longer at the solstices than at the equinoxes. The interval from rising to setting of the sun's upper limb at the equator is about 12 hours 7 minutes.

The Kentucky derby is a $50,000 race for three-year-olds at one and a quarter miles. The race was one and one-half miles from 1875 to 1895. It is run at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:
Appreciation is expressed to all who cooperated in making the operetta, "In the Garden of the Shah," such a high success.
Especially is thanks expressed to Mrs. Fred Clarke who so kindly donated his truck to transport the costumes to and from Sullivan's Studio in Columbus.

ALL HONOR-ORCHESTRA!
Another mark in the merits of Circleville high school will be jotted down in the records today as the result of the program broadcast this morning from radio station W. A. I. U. Columbus, O. by the high school orchestra.

C. F. Zaenglein, director and founder of the orchestra must be given undefinable credit for his wonderful work which he has performed at the high school during the past years.

When Mr. Zaenglein first came to C. H. S. he had only 5 or 10 members, but now he has increased the quota to almost 40 members and every student who has any musical ability whatsoever always has a chance with Mr. Zaenglein.

The Circleville high school orchestra and Mr. Zaenglein receive the hearty congratulations of one and all.

SENIORS ATTENTION

What will the 1930 seniors leave to Circleville high school? This question arises at an opportune moment and senior classmen should consider it.

Heretofore, senior classes have always left behind them some token of appreciation in the school for the learning they have acquired within its portals.

So it is that the senior classmen of today should begin to give some serious thought to this old tradition in C. H. S. Something fitting and something that will be appreciated by future classes should be considered.

SENIORS CLAIM TWO TITLES

The senior boys of this year lay claim to two inter-class championships.

Last year as juniors the class of '29' claimed the inter-class baseball championships by right of a win over the Frosh in the final round of competition.

During this present term the seniors claimed the inter-class basketball championship. By a strange coincidence the Freshmen were runners up in this tournament also.

Soon the inter-class baseball tournament will start and the seniors of 1930 are out to claim that title also.

No other class in the high school can claim such a record as the class of 1930.

WHY GO TO COLLEGE?

This is the question which is now being discussed by the seniors. Why should I go to college?

A college is not the place for us to spend a few more years, neither is it a place for fun. A number of enrollments are based on these ideas, however.

A college is an institution where we may obtain a higher education than a high school affords. It merely directs us to the road for advancement. It contains the necessary social life to give a pupil the opportunity to better himself socially. It may also be defined as the place for one to acquire higher ideals.

Several reasons may be given for why one should go to college. First, to fit one's self for a certain vocation. Another reason is to obtain higher ideals in life. While, yet, a third reason may be given to make one's self better acquainted with the social world.

The day is probably near at hand when a college education will be required more than it is at present and without it, manual labor will have to occupy one's life.

MORE INSTRUCTIVE CHAPELS
Chapel services at Circleville high school seem to be wanted more and more by the student body. The other day we found the reason why.

Students do not merely want chapel for just the sake of missing a class period or two; they want chapels now because they are more instructive and entertaining.

The Red and Black enthusiastically commends the faculty for such chapels. There is no reason why we shouldn't have more.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY CAST IS SELECTED

The Busybody which has been chosen as the senior class play, will be presented May 15 and 16. A domestic farcical comedy in three acts, the Busybody is a George Choo's production taken from the play "Mommie, How Could You?" written by Darance Davis, and starring Ada Lewis in the leading role at the New York Bijou.

The play takes place at Riverside Drive in New York city in an apartment. Ernest Cadman, Edward Culpepper and Archibald Stubbs are three heavy lovers. The heroines are Sally Culpepper, Minerva Culpepper and an attractive widow, Rosamond Rossmore. There are two parts of dignity and intellectuality namely, Professor Kelp and Miss Hammer, who is literary bent. The parts of comedy fall to the Irish detective, big Ignatius J. Cassidy and his two unusual sleuths who catch everything including a cold and a negro maid in bed, the janitor and Hilda, the negro maid of size.

Play books arrived Wednesday and they were distributed to those who were trying out for the play. Tryouts were held Thursday evening when 24 candidates were cast.

A tentative cast was later chosen from those who tried out and is as follows: Sally Culpepper, Mary Margaret Moore, Archibald Stubbs, Charles Kirkpatrick, Hilda Elizabeth Roundhouse; Mrs. Culpepper, Margie Hunsicker; Edward Culpepper, Linden Baughman; Rosamond Rossmore, Elizabeth Cady; Minerva Culpepper, Peggy Courtwright; Miss Hammer, Florence Celar; Ernest Cadman, Howard Greeno; The Lady Across The Hall, Jeanne Crowe; The Janitor, Reynold Greene; Ignatius J. Cassidy, Robert Rector; The Lady from Downstairs, Martha Mader; Detective, Charles M. McAllister; Another Detective, James Brown.

The character Professor Kelp has not yet been selected. John Heiskell and Reynold Greene are stage managers. They will probably be assisted by John Himrod and Ruth Carothers, experienced backstage hands of the Junior class.

CLASS DEDICATION ISSUES

April 5 issue of the Red and Black will be dedicated to the seniors. The seniors of the journalism class will have charge of the newspaper. It will be in charge of Editor John Heiskell, make-up editor, Reynold Greene and reporters, Virginia Richey and Hilda Thomas.

April 12 issue will be dedicated to the juniors and published by juniors of the journalism class. It will be in charge of Editor Robert Rooney, make-up editor, Don Rader and reporters, John Hegele and Doris Peters.

April 19 issue will be dedicated to the sophomores and will be published by the sophomores of journalism class. The edition will be in charge of Kat Kirwin, editor; Harold Dresbach, Wilbur Funk, Edward Greene, Marvin Seymour, Dale Strawser and Donald White, reporters.

April 26 issue which will be dedicated to the freshmen will be in charge of Editor Nancy Jane Merriman. It has not yet been decided whether to include the eighth grade or whether to select pupils from the freshman English classes to act as reporters for that issue.

CLASS OF '30', IS LEADER

During the freshman year, the Epsilon Mu Sigma, an English honorary society was originated by members of this year's graduating class. Those members were very proud to think of starting the first new English honorary club.

During this year, several members of this year's class were among the originators of the Home Economics Club.

Boys of the class of '30 won the inter-class baseball championship during their junior year. This year they won the basketball championship.

There is no club functioning at C. H. S. which is not represented by one or more members of this year's graduating class.

Seniors, who make up this year's class, have been quite active throughout their high school life. They have endeavored to increase interest for the future students who will attend C. H. S. At the same time, they have received much pleasure and education by their efforts and they have benefited well.

The class is in hopes that their efforts will serve as an incentive for other classes to use as a basis in making advancement.

PHYSICS DEPT. HAS CHANGE

The physics department has been divided into three classes which makes experimenting cheaper and more beneficial to each student. Two classes experiment at a time.

WHO IS IT?

This junior is tall and slender, he has gray eyes, a fair complexion with a few freckles. He is a typical Irishman, and upon close observation it can be noticed that his hair which is parted on the side has a reddish tinge. His favorite color must be green because he usually has either a green sweater or tie on.

He is always busy as a Hi-Y member and a member of various other C. H. S. organizations.

Miss Florence Hoffman of Corwin seventh reports the following perfect attendance records for the year: George Ammer, Elsie Ann Brehmer, Gaylord Greenlee, Tom Kirwin, Isadore Heskett and Catherine Woodlee.

Miss Bernice Buskirk reports Virginia Cady and Arthur Good as the only two having perfect attendance in her class.

HIGH IN MACBETH
An objective test on The Tragedy of Macbeth, prepared by Rice, D. Ed. of the Smith Hammond Co., Atlanta, Ga., was given to 30 junior English students, last week. The median was 91, high 97 1-2, and low 66 1-2 reports Mr. Fetherlin.

Twenty-three students of the afternoon section took the same test. The high was 97, median 93, and low 47 1-2. The median of the two classes on this test was nine points higher than last year's median.

HIGH IN AS YOU LIKE IT
Twenty-eight A class freshmen took Doctor Rice's objective test on Shakespeare's As You Like It. The high was 98, low 83, and median 96. Twenty-seven students received 90 or above.

In the B section 39 students took the test. The high was 97, median 91, and low 70.

In the C section 19 students took the test. The high was 95 1-2, median 88, and low 75.

"Out of the 86 freshmen who took the test no one failed. The grades were higher than last year's grades on the same test," says Instructor Fetherlin.

Wednesday noon reports on the Girl Reserve Conference, held Saturday at the Y. W. C. A. in Columbus were given by Mary Margaret Moore, Florence Celar, Helen Celar, Mary Angela Ryan, and Mary Roth, who attended the meeting. Miss Velma Watson also attended the conference. New material, songs and stunts, was obtained at the Conference, and the five who went to Columbus will present this material at the meeting next week.

Tomato soup, toast sticks, pineapple salad and coffee were served by Nina Denman, Dorothy Riegel and Jean Fitzpatrick, this week's cooks.

SENIORS TO WEAR DARK
Senior boys decided to wear dark suits at commencement.

CIRCLE CONTESTS, 6 WINNERS NAMED

Jokes

Doris Peters, Robert Rooney, and Vivian Holmes win the first, second and third prizes respectively in the "Circle" joke contest.

The first prize, for the largest number of acceptable jokes, is a 1930 "Circle." The second, for the next largest number of acceptable jokes, is a receipt for a dollar payment on a Circle. The third, for the best joke, is a receipt for a 50c payment on the same.

Miss Elma Rains, Mr. J. M. Guthrie and Mr. Fred Watts acted as judges for this contest.

Snapshots

Peggy Courtwright, Millar, Dunckle and Waldo Hillyard are the winners of the first, second and third prizes respectively, in the snapshot contest. The prizes for this contest are the same as the ones in the joke contest.

Most of the snaps turned in were exceptionally good and it was hard to decide the best one. The annual staff wishes to thank the students for their cooperation and interest in this work.

"Circle" Cover Select
Blue and gold, the senior class colors will be carried out in the cover of the "Circle" this year, it has been reported.

It won't be long until sales for the "Circle" will begin, so save up your pennies until you have 150 of them put by in the old "black sock" to exchange for a receipt which will entitle you to a 1930 annual.

SENIORS WELL REPRESENTED

The senior class of 1930 has been amply represented in every organization within the school.

To prove this statement, there were eight seniors in football, five in basketball, ten in the Hi-Y, 14 in the girls reserves, four in the Epsilon Mu Sigma, seven in the Quill and Scroll, 15 in the National Thespians, 40 in the Pep Club, 32 in the Athletic Association, five in the Home Economics Club, four on the Red and Black Staff, six on the "Circle" Staff, seven in the office work and nine in orchestra.

JUNIOR AFFIRMATIVE WINS DEBATE
Modern Advertising is More Detrimental than Beneficial to the American People, was the topic for a debate given in chapel Thursday afternoon by the two junior English classes. The affirmative team won 3 to 0 by scoring 447 points to their opponents 396.

Students of the affirmative were: Dorothy Styers, first speaker; Martha Osborn, second speaker and Grace Steele, alternate.

Members of the negative team were: Charles Brown, first speaker; Martha Osborn, second speaker and Lucile Kirkwood, alternate.

Officials of the debate were: John Hegele, chairman; Helen Tatman and Sheldon Mader, timekeepers and Miss Kuhlman, Mr. Guthrie and Miss Watson, judges.

ORCHESTRA
The Circleville high school orchestra under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein presented the following program from radio broadcasting station W. A. I. U. at 10:30 this morning: march, "Men of Ohio"; selection, "Bohemian Girl"; vocal solo, by Howard Greeno; selection, "Moment Musical"; trombone specialty, "Lassus Trombone"; selection, "Two Guitars"; saxophone solo by Gaylord Rose; and march "Americans We."

CHOCOLATE DISCUSSED
The cocoa bean was discovered in Mexico in 1528 by Cortez, but wasn't made useful until 1606, so read pamphlets in the collection in the Franklin-st school museum.

Pure chocolate contains a high percentage of fat, protein, calcium, and phosphorus. When milk is added it forms the highest quality of nutrition known. A quart pound of chocolate has more nutritive material in it than a quart of milk and almost a dozen eggs.

Cocoa beans and other articles go through more than 22 processes before they unite and become milk chocolate. The Hershey Chocolate company has two mills having capacities of 450,000 bags of sugar for the grinding season of six months, sugar being necessary for the finished products. The 44,000 acre plantation produces 3,000 bags or 975,000 pounds daily.

P. T. A. PLANS BAKE SALE

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Pickaway-twp school will have a bake sale on Saturday May 10, the day before Mother's Day. The sale will be held at the City Building.

CAMPAIGN

"Continued from page one." mean thousands of votes, go in and save the extra votes this week. Don't fail down on that wonderful opportunity. It will not come again.

In every campaign there are some candidates who figure on waiting until the last week before putting forth much effort in their own belief. They jolly themselves into believing that they are waiting until they know with whom they will have to compete so they know how hard to fight. The real reason is procrastination, but whatever it is, they will be irretrievably lost as far as the campaign is concerned if they pass up the chance to have the extra votes offered each week. Of course some candidates can make a whirlwind finish and may pull through, we will not say they won't but it would be much easier to make themselves unbeatable by going out and getting the extra vote ballot offered this week. No one should pass this "Vote Bargain" and the wise candidate will skip about and collect his or her promises and when Thursday rolls around will have the right to demand 275,000 extra votes.

will have a bake sale on Saturday May 10, the day before Mother's Day. The sale will be held at the City Building.

MEDICS MEET HERE FRIDAY

Mrs. Courtright Talks of Anti-Tuberculosis Work in County.

The regular meeting of the Pickaway County Medical Society was held Friday at the Boggs hotel with dinner at six o'clock. Ten members from the city were present. Hospital plans were discussed and each member was urged to do what he could to hasten the lagging work in order that the hospital may be opened to the public by the first of June.

A medical advisory committee was appointed by president, J. B. May.

Mrs. D. V. Courtright appeared before the society in the interests of the anti-tuberculosis work in the county. She brought out in her talk that this county stood second highest in its morbidity rate.

The local branch of the anti-tuberculosis league plans to spend what little money they have from contributions in the employment of a full time nurse who will make a comprehensive survey of the county that the problem may be approached to best advantage. On motion of Dr. Howard Jones the society expressed itself as lending its full cooperation to this work.

The society further agreed to close shop on Wednesday afternoon and evening of each week

during the months of May, June, July, August and September.

CIRCLE CONTESTS,
6 WINNERS NAMED

Jokes

Doris Peters, Robert Rooney, and Vivian Holmes win the first, second and third prizes respectively in the "Circle" joke contest.

The first prize, for the largest number of acceptable jokes, is a 1930 "Circle." The second, for the next largest number of acceptable jokes, is a receipt for a dollar payment on a Circle. The third, for the best joke, is a receipt for a 50c payment on the same.

Miss Elma Rains, Mr. J. M. Guthrie and Mr. Fred Watts acted as judges for this contest.

Snapshots

Peggy Courtwright, Millar Dunkle and Waldo Hilyard are the winners of the first, second and third prizes respectively in the snapshot contest. The prizes for this contest are the same as the ones in the joke contest.

Most of the snaps turned in were exceptionally good and it was hard to decide the best one. The annual staff wishes to thank the students for their cooperation and interest in this work.

"Circle" Cover Select
Blue and gold, the senior class colors will be carried out in the cover of the "Circle" this year, it has been reported.

It won't be long until sales for the "Circle" will begin, so save up your pennies until you have 150 of them put by in the old "black sock" to exchange for a receipt which will entitle you to a 1930 annual.

SENIORS WELL REPRESENTED

The senior class of 1930 has been amply represented in every organization within the school.

To prove this statement there were eight seniors in football, five in basketball, ten in the Hi-Y, 14 in the girls reserves, four in the Epsilon Mu Sigma, seven in the Quill and Scroll, 15 in the National Thespians, 40 in the Pep Club, 32 in the Athletic Association, five in the Home Economic Club, four on the Red and Black Staff, six on the "Circle" Staff, seven in the office work and nine in orchestra.

Pure chocolate contains a high percentages of fat, protein, calcium, and phosphorus. When milk is added it forms the highest quality of nutrition known. A quarter pound of chocolate has more nutritive material in it than a quart of milk and almost a dozen of eggs.

Cocoa beans and other articles go through more than 22 processes before they unite and become milk chocolate. The Hershey Chocolate company has two mills having capacities of 450,000 bags of sugar for the grinding season of six months, sugar being necessary for the finished products. The 44,000 acre plantation produces 3,000 bags or 975,000 pounds daily.

CHOCOLATE DISCUSSED

The cocoa bean was discovered in Mexico in 1528 by Cortez but wasn't made useful until 1606, so read pamphlets in the collection in the Franklin-st school museum.

CAMPAIGN

(Continued from page one.) mean thousands of votes, go in and save the extra votes this week. Don't fall down on that wonderful opportunity. It will not come again.

In every campaign there are some candidates who figure on waiting until the last week before putting forth much effort in their own belief. They jolly themselves into believing that they are waiting until they know with whom they will have to compete so they know how hard to fight. The real reason is procrastination, but whatever it is, they will be irretrievably lost as far as the campaign is concerned if they pass up the chance to have the extra votes offered each week. Of course some candidates can make a whirlwind finish and may pull through, we will not say they won't but it would be much easier to make themselves unbeatable by going out and getting the extra vote ballot offered this week. No one should pass this "Vote Bargain" and the wise candidate will skip about and collect his or her promises and when Thursday rolls around will have the right to demand 275,000 extra votes.

will have a bake sale on Saturday May 10, the day before Mother's Day. The sale will be held at the City Building.

MEDICS MEET
HERE FRIDAY

Mrs. Courtwright Talks of Anti-Tuberculosis Work in County.

The regular meeting of the Pickaway County Medical Society was held Friday at the Boggs hotel with dinner at six o'clock. Ten members from the city were present. Hospital plans were discussed and each member was urged to do what he could to hasten the lagging work in order that the hospital may be opened to the public by the first of June.

A medical advisory committee was appointed by president, J. B. May.

Mrs. D. V. Courtwright appeared before the society in the interests of the anti-tuberculosis work in the county. She brought out in her talk that this county stood second highest in its morbidity rate.

The local branch of the anti-tuberculosis league plans to spend what little money they have from contributions in the employment of a full time nurse who will make a comprehensive survey of the county that the problem may be approached to best advantage. On motion of Dr. Howard Jones the society expressed itself as lending its full cooperation to this work.

The society further agreed to close shop on Wednesday afternoon and evening of each week

during the months of May, June, July, August and September.
